

ABSTRACT

Catalog is a collection of a data that organized well, so that it can be read easily in the order, and the barber shop's catalog hairstyle currently still use the magazines. Seeing that, the author proposes to create an application that can display catalogs hair model with android devices. Applications are made in addition to showing photo catalog can also recommend an appropriate choices of hairstyle based on the face shape and skin color. To be able to make this application the author using waterfall method for the methodology of making and Object oriented as Development model. PhoneGap and Java Native. HTML 5, CSS and Java Script as language programming. This application can be used for users as general users, and admin as the company that manages the application. This application is expected to assist the user for determining their hair model, as well as help the promotion for the company.

Keywords: Catalog, Android Applications, Barber Shop, Object Oriented.