

ABSTRACT

Hotel is one of the public services that offer a service in the provision of shelter, temporary and in a particular time for anyone who needs it.

Today many upper middle class who works in an office and conduct meetings or meetings with clients in the city or outside the city. Usually they need meeting room facilities with a variety of needs. Therefore, in order to simplify the process of meeting at make a reservation application meeting room is available with several options at several hotels. In this application the consumer who needs the meeting room can order by selecting also compare the facilities that are provided in some areas in the venue for the meeting.

Application is made is a web-based structured programming techniques, using the programming language PHP, MySQL database, and using testing techniques Black Box Testing. Expected system can run in all regions in Indonesia, especially to help the user make a reservation.

Keywords: Application, Booking, Meeting Room, PHP, MySQL