Nature is something pure and made by itself. Then, there is uniqueness in every line pattern. For example, we can see line patters from natural thing around us. Forth, natural line pattern has potential to be developed into a work. To make a work, we can inspire from what we've seen around us, for example motif works. The most common motif work that we see made from plants and animals, therefore natural lines patters can be a potential of motif work innovation, especially in fashion sector. Therefore, researcher made several explorations about processing of motif works that inspired from natural lines pattern. For example wood motif, it has a strong characteristic rather than other exploration. The wood motif then applied to ready-to-wear fashion, then, hopefully, the development would be fast in fashion industry because the consumers' needs that can use the fashion item to any occasion.
