

ABSTRACT

West Java Public Library (Department of Library and Archives of West Java) is a library that has a strategic role as a vehicle for learning to educate the community through the development of reading and fostering library culture with the aim of increasing the number of community visits, improving library material collection according to standards and needs, and improving community participation in library activities.

This design is expected to help change the image of the library in the eyes of the community by providing facilities that function as centers of literacy activities to support the role of libraries in increasing public interest and awareness to visit the library.
