ABSTRACT

Yogyakarta is one of the big cities in Indonesia where art growth is relatively fast. Many artists who were born and developed their art in Yogyakarta. The arts that developed in the city of Yogyakarta are of various types, ranging from those that bring elements of local culture to those that bring elements of social criticism. Urban art is an art that often brings such criticism, but the fact is that artists and their communities are not in a place to process so that art works often do not fit into their place and are considered vandalism. The Urban Art Space is intended to accommodate artists and their communities to express the ideas and ideas of artists and the community in the form of works and performing arts without any limitations. So that it can create an art space that is mutually inspiring, educates each other and appreciates each other. The Urban Art Space interior design process uses analysis and synthesis design methods. The analysis process is obtained by making a comparison of Art Space and drawing conclusions from the results of the Art space survey in several Cities in Indonesia, especially Yogyakarta, the interview process, and design issues. The synthesis process is in the form of solving problems from problems and phenomena. In the analysis process which is then re-evaluated against the design goals. The results of the design of Urban Art Space are the results of the implementation of concepts and programming into the spatial elements and spatial fill elements.
