ABSTRACT

Technology is rapidly developing. It, directly or not, affects the trading system. The online-selling make a possible people to trade the products and services online. The consumer, or at least the prospective one, can make a transaction by finding a website, seeing and reading the advertisement, and, perhaps,                 finally               making                an                order.

The system talked here is one of them. It's an application that is used to make an order in selling-online, specifically for Media Hindu's books. The customer can find any information related to the book and make an order directly from this application. They can also confirm every transaction here.

The costumers, nowadays, will definitely look for the best way to get their needs. This application offers that way with many benefits it has. The easier way in doing the transaction seems to be the biggest benefit the costumers can get.

Keyword : media hindu, books, selling-online