

ABSTRACT

The technology has been growing rapidly in order to follow and applying visual ideas into various media. The example of it is the art of plating and home living. Plating art enjoyed as the form of arts that bring attraction for food lover. While the home living are currently popular and trending in Indonesia. Plating Art is a form of art in food serving, created by observing the position and composition in order to show the artistic value and high quality of the food. Home living is the action or fact of staying at home and household environments. Both potential are made into a product by applying plating art into the textile product of home living as kitchen textiles. The plating art used is a menu table d'hote appetizer type. Techniques used for the research is a surface design techniques, are using digital print and embroidery techniques. Research methods used is qualitative methods and exploration, such as collecting source data, observing, and exploring the plating art composition layout inspired by chef style using digital painting. The goal of the research is to apply plating art to the design development of home living.

Keywords : Plating art, home living, lifestyle product