

ABSTRACT

Teenager is a term when somebody in a process to grow up in At the age of 13 years up to 23 years, which at this term somebody is heading also in the stage of seeking identity for self-formation in adulthood. With a variety of backgrounds, a teenager can fall into a negative life or a positive life for his future, one result is parental divorce. In many experiences that have occurred, parental divorce is very influential in the lives of teenagers and largely affects interpersonal communication that exists between teens with single parents. This research uses qualitative research method through observation and interview. The results of this study led to a form of interpersonal communication among teenagers with single parents in a divorced family. Which uses qualitative research methods.

Keywords: Interpersonal Communication, teens, teenagers, Divorce, Divorced Families, Qualitative Research Methods