

ABSTRACT

The design of Islamic Fashion Institute is motivated by the desire to build a new, more professional school that leads to the incubation of fashion business, this school is located in Bandung which will then be built in Pondok Indah Regency, South Jakarta. The problem is the facilities in old buildings cannot accommodate as incubators, so the main objective has not been achieved. Besides that, there are also problems how to bring out the interior of the room that gives a professional impression. This is to stimulate students to work like a professional and is also part of business incubation. By using the concept of interior design "school as the incubation of the fashion business", it is expected to bring out a professional business persona in the field of fashion. In this concept a transparent room is created, where the learning process can be seen, and all can learn not only in the classroom.
