ABSTRACT

In the neighborhoods around us there are usually vegetable traders, both who sell vegetables around or settle. Sometimes we want to buy vegetables from the merchant, but the trader has passed our house too far or is busy with work outside so that he does not have time to buy it. Coupled with the ignorance of buyers, the merchant will sell schedules, making meetings between buyers and traders more difficult to occur. This is detrimental to both parties, because traders lose their customers, and buyers do not get vegetable ingredients for cooking.

With the development of technology today, the online vegetable traders application is created to make it easier for buyers to order the desired vegetable ingredients wherever and whenever. Vegetable trader application is an android-based online vegetable ordering application that aims to enable buyers to order food ingredients according to the wishes of the buyer so that goods purchased by vegetable traders are goods that have been ordered, this application has 2 types of users (traders and buyers). Allows users to view and buy vegetable products from merchants via Android smartphone.

Keywords*: android, vegetable traders*