

ABSTRACT

West Borneo capital of Pontianak City which has an area of 107.8 m² located right on the Equator and surrounded by the Kapuas River which is the longest river 1.1.43 km in Indonesia. Pontianak City is an access point and a gateway to West Borneo Province. Tourist destinations and distribution centers in West Borneo that can be accessed one of them through the Dwikora Port. Dwikora Port is a sea passenger transportation service under the auspices of PT. Pelabuhan Indonesia II (Persero). The Passenger Terminal is one of the facilities in Dwikora Port that functions as a gathering place for passengers to carry out activities coming, going and waiting so that the necessary facilities and services in the form of safety, security, reliability, comfort, convenience and equality to meet the needs of passengers, especially when the flow back and forth. Existing interior space must be able to facilitate and provide education about the culture in Pontianak.

Keywords: Interior, Passenger Terminal, Facilities, Culture, Equator.