Sexual harassment is a sexual act through physical or non-physical contact that targets the sexual organs or sexuality of the victim. it includes using whistles, flirting, sexual nuances, pokes or touches on the body. Sexual harassment can occur anywhere, so sexual harassment is still often found in the community and educational environments. Therefore, we need a media to provide a message and information about the attention of sexual harassment at Telkom University, aiming that Telkom students are aware of the attention to victims of sexual harassment and the phenomenon of sexual harassment. The media used is Webseries, which is useful for informing about messages and information to Telkom University students about sexual harassment concerns. The method used is a mixed method by conducting research related to objects and subjects through the process of observation, interviews, literature studies, questionnaires to obtain the basic concepts of design. The design of this final project is expected to be able to provide a message and information about the importance of attention in addressing sexual harassment that occurred at Telkom University.
