Business is any activity that aims to produce goods and services for profit. The food and beverage industry is one of the main manufacturing industries that makes a significant contribution to national economic growth. One example from the beverage industry is Chi-Chi Thai tea which sells drinks in cup form. With the busy interest of the public who wants to buy drinks, it makes Chi-Chi Thai Tea difficult in managing the company, one of which is to queue up to order drinks.

Researchers will build a web-based application. The software development model that will be used for Chi-Chi Thai Tea application development is Waterfall. The waterfall was chosen because of its suitability with the conditions of the small number of development teams.

From the description above states that the Chi-Chi Thai tea application was built with the aim of making it easier for customers and Chi-Chi Thai Tea in the process of ordering drinks which will be more effective and efficient.
