ABSTRACT

Hyasrumah is an Interior Design Service Platform that is expected to provide information and educate the public regarding interior design, providing consulting/guidance services at affordable, easy and practical prices, including selling decorative decorations. In addition to solving designer problems, Hyasrumah facilitates designers to market their designs through the marketplace. Through the Hyasrumah Platform, it is hoped that the designer portfolio can be reached more broadly by the community where the marketplace can become a bridge between designers and clients to realize client desires. However, there are still many people who have not used interior design services as their residence and many other obstacles that make people reluctant to use interior design services, one of which is the high price. This application can handle these problems, by using the Hyasrumah application, the community does not need to have any more trouble. With low prices, people can already use interior design services to beautify their homes. This application uses MySQL and the Laravel framework.
