

ABSTRACT

Hospital is one of the most important places or facilities at this time, recently hospital has become most frequently visited place because of the outbreak that has attacked. Public need for health services has recently increased to reach 85%. While we only have 12% facilities for mom and kids, and just 45% of the facilities are decent. As the increasing need the required facilities also increase. The method used in this designing process is a qualitative method. In this method, research data is obtained from a phenomenon in the field and literature studies about hospitals. Concept also an important part in designing process. Therefore, one of the ideas for developing the concept is to develop the concept of healing pshycology, main concept in this project is to distract kids anda mom from fear and pain

Keywords: Re-design, Hospital, Healing Pshycology