

ABSTRACT

Study this conducted for knowing pattern communication on conflict brawl between the gang in the garden new, Jakarta. Destination conducted study this is look for information related pattern communication on conflict brawl between gang that is A2R and AGK gangs. Study this conducted by qualitative with type study intrinsic case study, type study Intrinsic case study was also conducted for get better understanding and analysis deep about individual, group or situation. Subject study this that is there are 8 informants researcher namely 6 informants key from each 3 people from second split gang namely A2R and AGK. And also 1 informant supporter that is witness eye related brawl and 1 informant expert that is figure Public local. The data collected is also through observation and interview by direct for can meet the data desired by the researcher. Data analysis techniques carried out by researchers that is there are 3 stages that is data condensation, data presentation and retrieval conclusion. Based on from results research that has been researched that researcher find the communication process primarily because in pattern communication between the two split group that have code for To do action brawl that. And researchers also do search pattern 4 stage communication that is from recognition, conflict, emergence attitudes new, and support.

Keywords: Communication Pattern , Conflict , Brawl