ABSTRACT

This application was created because it is motivated by the role of information systems which are currently very developed. The purpose of making this application is to make it easier for patients to queue or consult with doctors through an application also to improve the quality and service at the Ngadirojo Public Health Center, therefore a health service application is needed for the community, the features contained in this application include patients being able to access

Keywords: Public Health Center, Information Systems, Patients, Doctors