

ABSTRACT

In today's era technology is growing, the library as an information center is required to be in line with the present. The library has undergone a shift in function. The library that used to be a place for borrowing and reading books, is now required to be in line with today's developments. To be able to attract visitors, the library must develop and innovate according to the needs and activities of visitors. The low interest of the public, especially young people, to visit the library is caused by the unattractive and innovative condition of the library. UPT. Syiah Kuala University Library is one of the libraries located in Banda Aceh. The main objective of the UPT redesign. The library of Syiah Kuala University is to design the interior of UPT. Syiah Kuala Library which complies with the Law on National Library Standards and facilitates the vision and mission of Syiah Kuala University. The method used in this design project is by collecting data through interviews, observations and field studies. In addition, secondary data collection was also carried out including literature studies from various journals, articles and books relevant to the design. So in this design a redesign is carried out to answer the problems contained in the library.
