

ABSTRACT

Shadow is a form of reflection of light on objects or objects. If light hits an object or object, it can form a reflection in the form of shadows. An object or object will form an image that is larger than the original when approaching the light. Every living person and every object must have a visible shadow. The author's habit of seeing a shadow of an object or seeing a shadow that represents the shape of the shadow has another shape from the object. The author wants to know how sensitive humans are to the shadows around them and how humans can imagine with a shadow. The author makes a work by making a shadow together with the people who see his work with the creativity of the author. Creating a room that has a height and width according to human size to create a shadow, by placing light in the room will reveal the shape of the shadow made by the audience. The room is made in white so that the shadows appear clearer. The result of this work is an installation that has space to create a shadow shape made with the rules of performance art.
