Representasi Toxic Relationship Dalam Potrait Photography

TA: Program Studi Seni Rupa Fakultas Industri Kreatif Universitas Telkom

Human relations are a very important thing for life. Because with each other we can get to know each other and can also get good and positive things for ourselves and vice versa, but it doesn't apply to all things, of course there must be something negative or detrimental for ourselves. The creation method begins with several female friends who tell stories about their anxiety towards their partners because they are trapped in unhealthy or toxic relationships and are added with questionnaire data collection by the author. With the creation of this work, the author wants to convey a message through a photographic work that is more precisely portrait photography with the addition of a projection tool to display a word or message conveyed, and additional make up on the face of the talent or photo object, with make up. bruised face due to abusive actions to his partner. The purpose of this photography work is to make people aware that a toxic relationship is not good for a person's mental health and can cause trauma.
