ABSTRACT

This photographic work is a model photography work using Minang Kabau traditional clothing which is experimental by using the main light from the LCD projector beam. The light used on the LCD projector is light that is selected from the computer and then fired with the LCD projector towards the model. Photographs were taken in an indoor studio in order to create a special texture for the model. The concept of the images emitted into colorful modern themed models can make the current image of traditional clothes look like they are following the times. This work was created by displaying the visualization of traditional clothing in accordance with the current developments. In addition, this photographic work can also make it easier for teenagers to absorb information about traditional clothing in Indonesia.
