ABSTRACT

This era of globalization is an important era, especially for companies in the technology sector which greatly affect the dynamics of all aspects of company activities, which can lead to intense competition among companies to get the right market. In addition, the main thing needed by companies is the need for productive employees. However, to achieve productivity in this era of globalization, it is necessary to encourage not only workers, but also from the interior of the office itself so that the company's goals can be achieved properly. Related to work productivity, interior concepts are needed such as furniture, lighting, ventilation, room layout, noise, which can be applied to office interiors and can increase employee work productivity. The purpose of this design is to provide a comfortable and safe office interior design for office employees so that the company's goals can be realized. The design method used is the analytical and synthetic method, where the author visits the location and searches for data related to the design. This is done in order to provide benefits to space users and readers related to the provisions of office interior design in the era of globalization, using a productivity approach.
