

ABSTRACT

Anxiety is a disorder characterized by excessive worry about an event that is not clear. These feelings have characteristics such as the emergence of excessive worry, feelings of discomfort, a sense of tension and thoughts that sometimes sound unrealistic. Anxiety is a big problem for a student to communicate normally with other students or lecturers, but feelings of anxiety or anxiety are not always a bad thing, with positive thinking anxiety can be overcome with motivation and encouragement from other people. For this reason, the authors have collected data on anxiety using the mixed method data collection to create a storytelling image that will be packaged into a Motion Comic Animation medium, where the author acts as the animator of the project. As an animator, the writer has the task of animating a picture scene with movement and gestures so that an animated story can be formed that discusses about anxiety that occurs after a student undergoes online learning and then moves on to undergo offline learning.
