Loneliness has long been considered a condition once experienced by everyone. Loneliness is an emotional condition in which a person feels that they have no social connection or closeness with others. In mental health, loneliness is a serious problem because it can affect mental and physical health. In this final project, the author only limits the topic of discussion that focuses on the writer's personal loneliness. The work created is an installation work with photographic media through the medium of a projector which will later refract the photographic work to the fabric in the dark room.

Keywords: Installation, photography, mix media, loneliness.
