

ABSTRACT

---

Rajasa Finishing and Printing is an entrepreneurial business engaged in printing services. But there are many problems in terms of the use of technology that has not been used optimally. Based on these problems, a printing application was made that can overcome these problems. The process uses PhpMyAdmin as the manufacturing program and MySQL as the database. The results obtained from the application that has been made include a catalog of goods that can be accessed online, can process orders online and so on related to the sales process. In addition, the application that has been made is also expected to be able to provide reports related to customer order data and financial data, so that it can help the owner to control the sales of his business.

Keywords: printing applications, printing, websites