

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this internship is to gain experience related to the field of study for the intern, in order to fulfill one of the graduation requirements of the D3 Information Systems Department, Faculty of Applied Sciences, Telkom University. The internship activities conducted at PT. Bank Negara Indonesia, focusing on supervision and micro front-end, provide valuable experiences for producing students who are better prepared to enter the workforce and become professionals through internship activities. With this internship, students can identify their skills, acquire new knowledge and experiences that enhance their personal development. The Faculty's Internship Program is conducted at PT. Bank Negara Indonesia, where the author was assigned to the supervision and micro front-end team. During the internship, the student worked on development in the micro front-end field and also supervised the work of developers. The application development aims to improve the appearance and business flow to be more attractive and user-friendly.

Keywords: Internship, PT Bank Negara Indonesia, Supervision and Micro Front-end, and Development.