

ABSTRACT

The project entitled "Representation of Home Space Memory in Abstract Painting Works" explains that every inhabited or lived-in space evokes feelings that create memories in one's mind, such as bedrooms, parents' rooms, father's workspace, bathrooms, and family rooms. The project title is based on the author's personal experience of living in a house since childhood with their family. Every side and corner of the house leaves memories, even though the furniture in each room has changed several times. This evokes feelings that the author tries to capture using their senses personally. These recordings are then stored, and someday recalled to remember those events. Because memories are not only visual stimuli but also involve all senses, they are then transformed into a series of paintings through the metaphor of abstract painting. Through the combination of memory and feelings expressed through abstract painting, this project aims to present human memory through the art of painting.
