Title of Thesis : Imagination as a work of Mix-Media Lockination Photography

The ability to imagine and be creative is very important in the modern era for innovation and problem solving. Although expansive imagination and creativity are usually present in childhood, imagination is often replaced by a realistic mindset as people grow older due to daily routines.

This final project looks at how imagination helps creativity by using mixed media photography techniques, which combine other artistic elements for broader expression. Audiences are taught that imagination is the first step to unlimited creativity and that fading imagination causes obstacles to creative thinking. This work produces a symbol that depicts the theme "Limitations of Creativity" and encourages imaginative thinking to develop creative potential.
