

Abstract

Determination of business process is first of state for develop application. The next state is make modeling use Business Process Management (BPM) and then implementation with generate code program according to language programming. In generate process code program, now not only can be generate by developer or programmer but also can be doing according to automate by the BPMS (Business Process Management System) that is jBPM (java Business Process Management). In jbpm-jpdl-3.2.GA support 8 functionality to implementation from modeling to application ready to use. A business analyst can be direct use some of functionality that is : State, Fork, Join, Node and Task Node. And the other functionality that is Decision, Process State and Super State, a business analyst must be cooperation with developer or programmer so that generate application with optimal.

Keywords : Business Process, JBPM, Code Generator